APPRECIATING OUR PAST. PLANNING OUR FUTURE.

Dear beloved clergy and faithful,

I pray that you and your loved ones have a happy, grace-filled, and prosperous 2025, and that this Melkite Catholic wall calendar may increase your knowledge of and enliven your love for our Lord Jesus Christ and His Church.

This year, 2025, marks the 1,700-year anniversary of the First Ecumenical Council of Nicaea. I have dedicated this year's wall calendar to commemorate the Fathers of the First Ecumenical Council and to their God-inspired work clarifying the Sacred Scriptures and the Tradition of the One, Holy, Catholic, and Apostolic Church.

I hope this calendar will be a companion of yours throughout the year, to integrate your daily schedule with your life in Christ and the liturgical year, that you may:

- meditate on the meaning of the Nicene Creed with an article each month written by Dr. Nathan Eubank, Associate Professor of Theology at the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Indiana and deacon candidate in the Melkite Catholic Deacon Formation program.
- feast and fast with your brothers and sisters throughout the Church;
- immerse yourself in the Sacred Scriptures with the liturgical year;
- honor the memory of the saints of the Church;
- pray for the living and departed clergy of the Diocese of Newton;
- stay connected with our Melkite Catholic communities across the United States; and
- remember your parish community with your time, talent, and treasure.

Remember me in your prayers, and be assured of mine.

With my prayers and best wishes,

+ François

Most Reverend François Beyrouti, Ph.D./D.Th.

The Nicene-Constantinopolitan Creed

I believe in one God, Father Almighty, Creator of heaven and earth and of all things visible and invisible.

And in one Lord Jesus Christ, the only-begotten Son of God, begotten of the Father before all ages;

Light of Light, true God of true God, begotten, not made, of one essence with the Father, by whom all things were made.

Who, for us and for our salvation, came down from heaven, and was incarnate of the Holy Spirit and the Virgin Mary, and became man.

He was crucified for us under Pontius Pilate, suffered, and was buried.

He rose again on the third day in accordance with the Scriptures, ascended into heaven, and is enthroned at the right hand of the Father.

He will come again with glory to judge the living and the dead and of his kingdom there shall be no end.

And in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the Giver of Life, who proceeds from the Father, who together with the Father and the Son is worshipped and glorified, who spoke through the prophets.

And in one, holy, catholic, and apostolic Church.

I profess one baptism for the remission of sins.

I look forward to the resurrection of the dead and the life of the age to come.

Amen.

THE COUNCIL OF NICAEA

In the year 2025 the Church celebrates the 1,700-year anniversary of the first ecumenical council, which was held in 325 in Nicaea, a city in Asia Minor (now Iznik, Turkey). Similar to the apostolic council in Jerusalem recounted in Acts 15, ecumenical councils consist of a gathering of all the bishops of the world to speak authoritatively to urgent questions of the day. The Council of Nicaea was called to resolve a dispute regarding the divinity of the Son of God. A priest named Arius in Alexandria, Egypt, taught that the Son was a creature and not fully divine as is the Father. Arius’s bishop, Alexander, taught that the Son is eternal and fully divine. Bishops around the Christian world took a variety of opinions on the issue, and so the Council was convened to settle the controversy and also to address other matters such as date of Pascha (Easter). The Council condemned Arius’s view and produced a creed that was meant to make it clear that the Son is indeed “true God of true God.”

THE CREED OF NICAEA

The Nicene Creed was not the first Christian statement of faith. Creeds and creed-like statements go back to the early days of the Church. These statements tended to have a three-fold structure, speaking first of the Father, then the Son, then the Holy Spirit. For example, candidates for baptism were asked to affirm that they believed in God the Father almighty, then Jesus Christ the Son of God, and finally the Holy Spirit and the Church (see Matthew 28:19; 2 Corinthians 13:13). The Nicene Creed followed this three-fold structure but placed new emphasis on the divinity of the Son as “God from God, light from light, true God from true God, begotten not made, of one essence with the Father.” In the decades that followed, the debates that led to the Council continued, and new questions arose as well, such as the divinity of the Holy Spirit. A second ecumenical council was convened in Constantinople in 381, and the fathers of that Council completed a second version of the creed, which is the basis of the creed that we recite in the Divine Liturgy. For this reason, the Nicene Creed is sometimes called the Nicene-Constantinopolitan creed and is celebrated for carrying the authority of the Church’s first two ecumenical councils.

FOR US AND FOR OUR SALVATION

On a superficial reading, the Creed may not seem like a text with urgent relevance for our lives with its talk of the “essence” of the Father the “begetting” of the Son. In reality, every word of the Creed has something important to tell us, and for this reason the Church has learned to treasure the Creed and include it in every Divine Liturgy. It is indeed a reliable guide to encountering the faith we believe and by which we are saved. The 1,700th anniversary of the Council of Nicaea is an opportune time to reflect on each line of the creed as we move through the months of this year.

I believe in one God, Father Almighty, Creator of Heaven and earth and of all things visible and invisible.

The Creed begins with a confession of the one true God who is the all-powerful Creator of all things. Belief in the one God upon Whom all other things depend for their existence is deeply rooted in the Scriptures, beginning with the Old Testament. Israel was called to acknowledge and serve only the one God: “Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord, and you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your might” (Deut 6:4–5; Mark 12). The prophets called Israel and the other nations as well to acknowledge the true God: “Turn to me and be saved, all the ends of the earth! For I am God, and there is no other...To me every knee shall bow, every tongue shall swear” (Is 45:22–23). The New Testament confession of Jesus as Lord and God does not detract from belief in the one God over all things but confirms it. As St. Paul puts it while echoing Deuteronomy, “There is one God, the Father, from are all things and for whom we exist, and one Lord Jesus Christ, through whom are all things and through whom we exist” (1 Cor 8:6). Jesus commanded the apostles to baptize in “the name” of the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, showing that the one God is triune (Matt 29:19).

FATHER: God is called “Father” in the Old Testament because He is the Creator of all Who cares for all creatures (Deut 32:6). Just as a human father begets and takes care of his children, God creates and sustains all things. When we confess God as Father, we do not mean that God is male. Indeed, God transcends the biological distinction between male and female. He is the creator of the distinction between male and female, and we use the language of fatherhood to help us better understand His provident care for all things. In the New Testament it was revealed that God is Father in a different and more fundamental sense: He is Father eternally in relation to the only Son. For this reason, the confession of God as Father also points us to the mystery of the Holy Trinity.

ALMIGHTY: to confess God as Almighty (Greek: Pantocrator; Latin: Omnipotens) is to confess that God rules over all things and can do all things. He did not need to create anything but did so out of his own goodness. He shows forth His power by bringing about our salvation, showing that “nothing is impossible with God” (Luke 1:37). He has manifested His infinite power to the world most clearly in the cross and resurrection of the Son, which revealed that Christ is “the power of God and the wisdom of God” (1 Cor 1:24).

CREATOR: God created all things out of nothing, and therefore all things reflect something of the goodness of God. As the book of Wisdom puts it, “For you love all things that exist, and detest none of the things that you have made, for you would not have made anything if you had hated it” (8:24). God’s free and loving creation of all things points forward to the new creation that He brings about through Christ.

And in one Lord Jesus Christ,
the Only-Begotten Son of God

Jesus is the Christ, which means the anointed one or “messiah,” the anointed king of Israel. Following the example of Scripture, the Creed also refers to Jesus as “Lord” (Kyrios in Greek). The word kyrios could refer to any human master or lord, but in the Greek Scriptures kyrios is often used to refer to God. The New Testament applies the title Kyrios to Jesus in ways that show that Jesus is to be identified with the one God (for example, Philippians 2:9–11). Scripture also refers to Him as the “Son of God.” The title “son of God” can mean many things in scripture. It can refer to angels, the people of Israel, or to kings (see Exodus 4:22; 2 Samuel 7:14). The Gospels reveal that Jesus is the Son of God in a higher, unique sense. He is the “only” Son of God (John 1:18) who was with the Father even before the world was made (John 17:5). At His baptism and at the Transfiguration, the Father identified Him as His “beloved Son.”

*...begotten of the Father before all ages.
Light of Light, true God of true God, begotten, not made, of one essence with the Father,
by whom all things were made.*

These words provide further clarification of what it means to confess Jesus as “Lord” and “Son of God.” Indeed, these lines address the central question that led to the Council of Nicaea in 325. If Jesus is the Son of God, does this mean that the Father-Son relationship is eternal and essential to who God is, or did the Father create the Son at some point in time? The Council fathers responded to this question by teaching that the Son is fully God just as the Father is. The words “light of light, true God of true God” and “of one essence with the Father” all make it clear that the Son is not a lesser divinity, but is fully God. He is “begotten of the Father before all ages” and “not made,” that is, not a creature, which means that the Father-Son relationship spoken of in the Scriptures refers not to the Son coming into existence at a certain point in time, but an eternal relationship within the one God. Far from being a part of creation, the Son is actually the one “by whom all things were made” (John 1:3; Colossians 1:16; Hebrews 1:2)..

Who, for us and for our salvation, came down from Heaven, and was incarnate of the Holy Spirit and the Virgin Mary, and became man.

With these words we confess that the Son of God, the One through whom all things were created, became a human for the sake of our salvation. The first chapter of John's Gospel is a good place to begin acquiring a deeper understanding of what this means. John begins by describing the Father and Son together from before the creation of the world:

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God and the Word was God. He was in the beginning with God. All things came into existence through him, and apart from him not one thing came into being (John 1:1-2).

The Son was there "in the beginning," that is, before creation (see Genesis 1:1) with God the Father. All things came into being through Him. The Word of God was always present to creation, and indeed something of the character of the Word was always available to those who sought wisdom. In the fullness of time, the Word became one of us:

And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, and we have seen his glory, the glory of the only Son of the Father (John 1:14).

The Word became flesh, while remaining the divine Word. As we pray in the Divine Liturgy, "Only-begotten Son and Word of God, immortal as you are, you condescended for our salvation to be incarnate of the holy Theotokos and ever-virgin Mary, and without undergoing change you became man." Jesus is not part God and part human, nor is He a divine-human mixture. He is truly divine and truly human. It is for this reason that we call Mary the Theotokos (God-bearer). Because Jesus is both God and human, it can be said that Mary truly gave birth to God, even though He is her creator.

John's words "we have seen his glory" reveal something of why the Son became incarnate for our sake. Humankind has been estranged from God since the beginning. As weak and fallen sinners we "lack the glory of God" (Romans 3:23). By becoming human and manifesting the glory of God to humanity, the Son divinizes us and makes us children of God (John 1:12-13). He shows us how great God's love is for us (John 13:1), takes away our sins (John 1:29), and draws all people to himself (John 12:32).

He was crucified for us under Pontius Pilate, suffered, and was buried.

In St. Paul’s first letter to the church he founded in the Greek city of Corinth, he reminded them of the Gospel message that he preached to them. He wrote this letter only about twenty years after the death and resurrection of Jesus, but the message of Christ crucified and risen had already acquired a formalized, creed-like form:

“I make known to you, brothers, the gospel that I preached to you, which you also received, in which also you stand, through which also you are being saved...For I handed on to you as of first importance that which I had also received:

That Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures;
And that He was buried;
And that He was raised on the third day according to the Scriptures;

And that He appeared to Cephas, then to the Twelve. Then He appeared to over five hundred brothers at once, of whom many are still alive, though some are asleep. Then He appeared to James, then to all the apostles. Last of all, as to one born at the wrong time, He appeared to me” (1 Corinthians 15:1–8).

The Nicene Creed draws on this very early proclamation of the Gospel, highlighting Jesus’s death, burial, and resurrection “according to the Scriptures,” which means in accordance with what is written in the Old Testament. Indeed, the New Testament frequently states that, though it was an unspeakable evil to condemn Jesus to death, his death happened according to the plan and foreknowledge of God as written in the Old Testament. As Jesus explained to two disciples after His resurrection, it was already made clear in Moses and the prophets that the Christ must suffer and then enter into glory (Luke 24:26–27).

Christ died “in accordance with the Scriptures,” but why was His death necessary? This question can only be answered adequately by drawing on all the Scriptures, but a concise answer can be found in Jesus’ words over the bread and the wine heard at every Divine Liturgy: “Take, eat; this is My body, which is broken for you for the remission of sins...Drink of this, all of. You, this is My blood of the new testament (or “covenant”), which is shed for you and for many, for the remission of sins.” Jesus offered Himself for our salvation to bring about the forgiveness of our sins and to usher in the new covenant which is offered to the entire world. In this new covenant we receive the Spirit of Christ, Who conforms us more closely to Christ, and teaches us to live our lives as living sacrifices to God (Romans 12:1).

CHRISTOS ANESTI EK NEKRŌN...

The significance of Christ’s resurrection is explained well in the Paschal troparion: “Christ is risen from the dead, trampling down death by death, and to those in the tombs bestowing life.” The resurrection is not just Christ’s own triumph over death; it is also our salvation because He became the “first-born from the dead” (Colossians 1:18), securing our own future resurrection and eternal life with God: “Since the Spirit of the One who raised Jesus from the dead dwells in you, He who raised Christ from the dead will also make your mortal bodies alive through His Spirit which dwells in you” (Romans 8:11). Even now, through the Spirit, we are united with Christ in His death and resurrection:

“Do you not know that we who were baptized into Christ Jesus were baptized into his death? We were buried with him through baptism into death, so that just as Christ was raised from the death through the glory of the Father, so also we might walk in newness of life” (Romans 6:3–4).

HE ASCENDED IN HEAVEN.

For forty days after Pascha and before Pentecost, Jesus appeared repeatedly to His disciples, proving that He was alive and teaching them about the Kingdom of God (Acts 1:3). Luke’s Gospel concludes with these words:

“Then Jesus led the disciples out as far as Bethany, and, lifting up his hands he blessed them. And while he was blessing them he departed from and was carried up in heaven. And they worshipped him, and returned to Jerusalem with great joy, and they were continually in the Temple blessing God” (24:50–52).

Why did the disciples experience “great joy” instead of sadness after the Lord left them? The answer to this question takes us to the heart of the importance of the Lord’s Ascension. The Ascension does not mean that He goes away into some far away space, but rather the entrance of His humanity into the life of God. He is always with us (Matthew 28:20), and even now because of our union with Him we can truly say that we are seated with Him in the heavenly places (Ephesians 2:6) and that our life is hidden with Christ in God (Colossians 3:3).

HE IS ENTHRONED AT THE RIGHT HAND OF THE FATHER.

When we speak of the Son sitting at the right hand of the Father, we are using the simple human language of a throne room to confess that the Son rules over all things with the Father. As St. John Damascene put it, “By ‘the Father’s right hand’ we understand the glory and honor of divinity, where He who exists as Son of God before all ages, indeed as God, of one being with the Father, is seated bodily after he became incarnate and his flesh was glorified” (quoted in Catechism of the Catholic Church 663).

He will come again with glory to judge the living and the dead and of His Kingdom there shall be no end.

The confession of Jesus’ return to judge the living and the dead means that Jesus, Who has already come in the humility of the manger and the cross, will come again at the end of all things to manifest His glory to the world and hold all people who have ever lived to account for their actions. This will be the final and definitive victory of Christ’s Kingdom over evil. The words of this line of the creed come directly from Scripture. Saint Peter told the first gentile convert that God commanded the apostles to preach that God had designated Jesus as “the judge of the living and the dead” (Acts 10:42), and St. Paul solemnly reminded St. Timothy to proclaim the word because Jesus will “judge the living and the dead” (2 Tim 4:1-2; see also 1 Pet 4:1-5). Jesus Himself spoke of this return, when He will “repay everyone for what they have done” (Matt 16:27) and when the conduct and secret thoughts of all will be revealed (Luke 12:2-3). Perhaps the best-known place in Scripture that speaks of the Jesus’ return in glory is the parable of the Sheep and Goats, where Jesus explains that when He comes in glory He will separate all people on the basis of how they treated the needy (Matt 25:31-46). We are reminded of the reality of the final judgment at every Divine Liturgy, where we pray for “a good defense before the awesome judgment seat of Christ” (see 2 Corinthians 5:10).

How are Christians supposed to think about the glorious return of Jesus? Already in antiquity there were some who denied that there would be any coming in glory or judgment, and some thought that they were assured of salvation and in no need of spending their lives in repentance and service of God, presuming that God’s grace is so great that judgment is made irrelevant. Conversely, some may have been terrified by the prospect of the final judgment (Matthew 25:25). Instead of denying the reality of judgment or being paralyzed with fear, the Holy Tradition teaches us to prepare for the Lord’s return with an attitude of holy fear or reverence. The second coming of Jesus is good news that we should look forward to with joyful expectation, assured that the Lord will wipe away every tear (Revelation 7:17) and defeat every evil, even death itself (1 Corinthians 15:26). At the same time, Scripture and the fathers of the church often remind us not to “think lightly of our salvation” (2 Clement 1:1) but to spend our lives in grateful service of the Lord, remembering that no one knows the day or the hour when he will face judgment (1 Thess 5:1-3). As St. Paul put it while speaking of the Lord’s return, “Let us be sober, putting on the breastplate of faith and love, and the helmet of the hope of salvation. For God has not appointed us for wrath but for obtaining salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ who died for us so that whether we are awake or asleep we may live with Him” (1 Thess 5:8-10).

And in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the Giver of Life, who proceeds from the Father

The original Nicene Creed simply confessed belief “in the Holy Spirit.” It was about sixty years later, at the Council of Constantinople (381), that the words we now confess were added. Indeed, the Spirit was the last of the persons of the Trinity to be revealed. As St. Gregory of Nazianzus explains:

“The Old Testament proclaimed the Father clearly, but the Son more obscurely. The New Testament revealed the Son and gave us a glimpse of the divinity of the Spirit. Now the Spirit dwells among us and grants us a clearer vision of himself. It was not prudent, when the divinity of the Father had not yet been confessed, to proclaim the Son openly and, when the divinity of the Son was not yet admitted, to add the Holy Spirit as an extra burden, to speak somewhat daringly” (quoted in Catechism of the Catholic Church 684).

Illuminated by the light of conciliar teaching, we now see the Holy Spirit clearly proclaimed in Scripture. For example, Jesus commanded that we baptize “in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit” (Matthew 28:19), which implies the equality of the three divine persons of the one God. Similarly, St. Paul blessed the Corinthian church with the words, “The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ and the love of God and the communion of the Holy Spirit be with you all” (2 Corinthians 13:13). Jesus promised that the Father would send the Holy Spirit to remind us of Jesus’s teaching and lead us to a deeper understanding of it (John 14:25).

THE GIVER OF LIFE, WHO PROCEEDS FROM THE FATHER

The words “Giver of Life” are explained well in the Byzantine prayer to the Holy Spirit:

“O heavenly King, Consoler, Spirit of Truth, present in all places and filling all things; the Treasury of blessings and the giver of life. Come and dwell in us, cleanse us of all stain, and fill our souls, O Good One.”

The Holy Spirit fills all of God’s creation and bestows blessings on all things. Above all, the Spirit gives us life by remaking us to become children of God conformed to the image of Christ. For this reason, Scripture also refers to the Holy Spirit as “the Spirit of Christ,” the One who gives us a sharing in Jesus’s death and resurrection even now (Romans 8:9–11). St. Paul often reminded his churches that God the Father gave them the Holy Spirit to dwell in their midst and make them holy (e.g., 1 Thessalonians 4:3–8; 1 Corinthians 6:19), and Jesus Himself promised that the Father would send the Holy Spirit in His name (John 14:26) and that He would send the Holy Spirit to us from the Father (John 15:26).

who together with the Father and the Son is worshipped and glorified, who spoke through the prophets.

The Holy Spirit is one of the persons of the Holy Trinity, equal in glory with the Father and the Son. When the Spirit descended on the apostles after Christ’s Ascension into heaven, the apostles were transformed by divine grace. In the words of the Troparion of Pentecost, “Blessed are You, O Christ our God, Who have filled the fishermen with wisdom by sending down the Holy Spirit upon them, and Who through them, have caught in Your net the whole world.” The Holy Spirit taught the apostles what to say (Acts 4:8-14), gave them courage (Acts 4:31), and authority (Acts 15:28-29).

It is by receiving the Holy Spirit through the Mystery of Baptism that all of us are invited into the life of God. The Spirit makes us children of God who pray to God as “Our Father” in imitation of the Son of God himself. As St. Paul explained to the Galatians:

“When the fullness of time came, God sent his Son, born of a woman, born under the Law, so that He might redeem those under the Law, so that we might receive adoption as sons. And because you are sons, God has sent the Spirit of his Son into our hearts crying, ‘Abba!’ (Father). Therefore, you are no longer a slave but a son, and if a son, also an heir through God” (Galatians 4:4-7).

Our very ability to call on God as Father and to say “Jesus is Lord” in faith is given to us by the Holy Spirit (1 Corinthians 12:3), Who awakens our faith and conforms us ever more closely to the image of the Son (see 2 Corinthians 3:18).

WHO SPOKE THROUGH THE PROPHETS

When we say the Holy Spirit spoke through the prophets, we are confessing that the Spirit inspired the prophets in both the Old and New Testaments, both in their speaking ministries and in authoring the books of sacred Scripture. The title “prophet” refers in the first instance to those called “prophet” in Scripture, such as the authors of the prophetic books (Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel etc.). It also refers more broadly to all the biblical authors who were inspired to write Scripture for the sake of our salvation. This line of the Creed reminds us to revere Scripture as God’s own words.

And in one, holy, catholic, and apostolic Church.

It is fitting that we confess our belief in the Church just after confessing the Holy Spirit, for it is the Holy Spirit Who makes the Church something more than a gathering of like-minded individuals. The Church is God’s temple, the dwelling place of the Holy Spirit (1 Corinthians 3:16). Scripture also describes the Church as the body or the bride of Christ, for we are all joined together mystically with Him. The Lord calls every individual to follow Him, but when we follow Him, we are necessarily in communion with one another as well (1 John 1:1-3).

ONE
The first of the four adjectives the Nicene Creed applies to the Church is “one.” The Church’s oneness is derived from her source, the one God. There is “one Lord, one faith, one baptism. One God and Father of all.” Therefore, all Christians must strive to keep “the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace” (Ephesians 4:5-6, 3). On the night He was handed over, the Lord himself prayed for the unity of all who would believe in Him, that we would be one, even as the Father and the Son are one, so that the world would know that the Father loves the world and sent the Son (John 17:20-24).

HOLY
How can the Church be holy when its members continue to commit sin? The Church is holy because it is the dwelling place of the Holy Spirit, and she is continually being made more holy through the mercy of God. Just before communion, the priest prays “Holy things are for the holy” and the people respond, “One is Holy, one is Lord, Jesus Christ, to the glory of God the Father.” With these words we confess that only One is truly holy, but by His grace we are being made holy. For this reason, St. Paul referred to the baptized as “saints” or “holy ones” (agioi). Though he was well aware of their sins, he was confident that God would continue to work in them so they would be blameless on the Day of the Lord.

CATHOLIC
Since the second century, the Church has been called “catholic,” which means “universal” or “according to the whole.” In contrast to sects or denominations that are found in certain parts of the world or among certain classes of people, the Church catholic is found throughout the world, among all kinds of people. The catholicity or universality of the Church is recognized as one of its distinguishing characteristics already in the New Testament. For example, in the book of Revelation the heavenly host praise Christ with these words: “by Your blood You purchased for God people from every tribe and tongue and people and nation and made them a kingdom and priests for our God” (5:9-10).

APOSTOLIC
The Church is called apostolic because she is founded by the witness and teaching of the apostles, and because she continues to be guided by the bishops, who are the successors of the apostles.

I profess one baptism for the remission of sins.

After His resurrection the Lord told the apostles to “Go into all the world and proclaim the Gospel to the whole creation. The one who has faith and is baptized will be saved” (Mark 16:15–16). Through faith and baptism we are welcomed into the people of God and our sins are forgiven. But the importance of baptism extends beyond merely wiping away the guilt of our past transgressions. As we often sing in the Divine Liturgy, “All of you who have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ” (from Galatians 3:27). In baptism we are joined to Christ in His death and resurrection so that “we may walk in newness of life” (Romans 6:4). In baptism and chrismation we enter into the very life of God, receiving the Spirit so that we pray to God as Father, just as Jesus did (Galatians 4:6). Baptism sets us on the path of salvation, as Jesus told Nicodemus, “Unless a person be born of water and Spirit, he cannot enter the Kingdom of God” (John 3:5). Just as Noah and his family were saved through water in the Ark, “baptism now saves you” (1 Peter 3:21).

ONE BAPTISM

Why do we confess “one baptism”? Scripture uses the phrase “one baptism” as a reminder that the entire Church is united under one Lord, with the same faith, and the same baptism, which means that we all must work to preserve the Church’s unity (Ephesians 4:1-6). St. John Damascene offers yet another reason why the Creed refers to one baptism:

“We confess one baptism for the forgiveness of sins and for eternal life because baptism refers to the death of the Lord. We are buried together with the Lord through baptism, as the divine Apostle says (Romans 6). Therefore, just as the death of the Lord was completed once and for all, so also it necessary to baptized only once” (Expositio fidei).

Drawing on St. Paul’s letters, Damascene explains that our baptism is truly a sharing in the death and resurrection of Christ. Through it we enter into his life and begin to experience something of the life to come even now. This passing from death to life cannot be repeated and does not need to be repeated, any more than one could experience natural birth or death more than once.

I look forward to the resurrection of the dead and the life of the world to come. Amen.

THE RESURRECTION OF THE DEAD

Christ’s resurrection is the not an isolated event but is the beginning and guarantee of our own future resurrection, and to confess Christ’s resurrection is also to look forward to our own. As St. Paul told the Corinthian church when they were inclined to accept Christ’s resurrection but deny their own:

“How can some of you say there is no resurrection from the dead? If there is no resurrection from the dead, then Christ has not been raised; if Christ has not been raised, then our preaching is in vain and your faith is in vain...But in fact Christ has been raised from the dead, the first fruits of those who have fallen asleep” (1 Corinthians 15:12–14, 20).

Because of the pain and suffering that is common to all human life, down the centuries many have hoped that our final salvation would involve an escape from the body to live as purely spiritual or intellectual entities. The Christian faith, however, maintains that God created humans not to be like spirits or angels, but to be embodied, and when he accomplishes our final salvation, it will involve the redemption of our flesh. The resurrection of the body, however, does not mean a simple return to the experience of suffering and death that we now know. It means rather that God in His infinite mercy and power will transform our bodies to be like the body of the risen Lord:

“This corruptible body must put on incorruptibility and this mortal body must put on immortality...Then the saying that is written will be fulfilled: ‘Death is swallowed up in victory. Where, O Death is your victory? Where, O Death, is your sting?’” (1 Corinthians 15:53–55)

THE LIFE OF THE WORLD TO COME

The Bible speaks of this age or world (aiōn) in contrast to the age or world to come. Though God is the creator of all things, this world has become darkened by sin and death. Belief in the world or age to come is founded on the confidence that God will not abandon humanity to our present experience of suffering, but will in the end conquer every evil and will gather His people to Himself forever. He will raise us up and usher in a new heavens and new earth (2 Peter 3:13) and will have His dwelling with humanity forever (Revelation 21:5).

“I consider that the sufferings of the present time are not worthy of the glory about to be revealed to us. For creation waits with eager longing for the revelation of the sons of God...because creation itself will be set free from the bondage of decay for the freedom of the glory of the children of God. For we know that the entire creation groans and suffers agony until the present time. And not only that, but we ourselves who have the first fruits of the Spirit, groan inwardly as we await for our adoption, the redemption of our bodies” (Romans 8:18–23).
